

M299 Proposed village

Introduction

One of Mackintosh's sketchbooks contains two rough plans of groups of cottages at the Stirlingshire village of Killearn.<sup>1</sup> The first, inscribed 'Proposed village at Killearn, Stirlingshire', shows a symmetrical pair of buildings on the main road, flanking the entrance to a forking lane of semi-detached cottages. The site appears to lie behind a continuous terrace of cottages running at a right angle to the main road. The second plan is more formal, with 22 terraced cottages arranged in a square bisected by a path. The plans are undated; the drawings either side in the sketchbook are dated 1909, which may provide an indication of when the plans were drawn. Neither the client nor the precise location is identified. It is not clear if they have any connection with Auchinibert, the house Mackintosh designed at Killearn for F. J. Shand.

Authorship: The sketches are by Mackintosh and they are inscribed in his hand.

Status: Unbuilt

Job Book

The job books of Honeyman & Keppie (later Honeyman, Keppie & Mackintosh) are now held by The Hunterian, University of Glasgow and include four volumes related to the Mackintosh period. The books were used by the firm to keep a project-by-project, day-by-day record of contractors, suppliers and expenditure. The name of a project and/or client is usually at the top of the left-hand page, followed by information about tradesmen who tendered. The name of the measurer (quantity surveyor) is usually at the top of the right-hand page, followed by information about payments to contractors and suppliers. All of the data for M299 is entered in the tables below.

Page numbering is not consistent in the job books. Sometimes a single number refers to a double-page spread and sometimes each page is individually numbered. Here, each image of a double-page spread is identified by the number given at the top of the left-hand page. (Images of all of the pages from the four job books can be found at Browse Job Books, Visit Book and Cash Book.)
