

M309 Memorial brass

Introduction

Honeyman, Keppie & Mackintosh's job book records that Mrs Helen McKechnie commissioned Honeyman, Keppie & Mackintosh to make a modest brass memorial. It is not known who or what was commemorated or where it was to be located. Three years earlier, the firm designed a memorial for the family of her husband, A. B. McKechnie.

Authorship: This is one of over 270 jobs carried out in the office of John Honeyman & Keppie (Honeyman, Keppie & Mackintosh from 1901) during Mackintosh's time there. Mackintosh undoubtedly worked on many of these, but there is no specific evidence for his involvement in this case.

Job Book

The job books of Honeyman & Keppie (later Honeyman, Keppie & Mackintosh) are now held by The Hunterian, University of Glasgow and include four volumes related to the Mackintosh period. The books were used by the firm to keep a project-by-project, day-by-day record of contractors, suppliers and expenditure. The name of a project and/or client is usually at the top of the left-hand page, followed by information about tradesmen who tendered. The name of the measurer (quantity surveyor) is usually at the top of the right-hand page, followed by information about payments to contractors and suppliers. All of the data for M309 is entered in the tables below.
